

Add-On for Salient Performance Management Solutions:

Let the data alert you to potential problem areas.

Automatically notify your sales force who is and who isn't buying products in their region. Alert branch locations when the Days of Supply for that critical product is low. Salient's new web service application, The Web Alerts, provides the ability to match sales reps to customer information, ensuring that exactly the right people receive exactly the right information.

This customizable system will allow managers to create exception criteria to alert a targeted group of users. These alerts can be delivered daily, weekly, monthly or whenever and wherever critical information is needed.

The Alert Wizard guides you through the process of creating alerts. Choose to have alerts forwarded to your PDA, laptop, cell phone, or third party application. As long as you can access the internet, Salient's Web Alerts will keep you informed.

Define your subscription time period. Send out daily alerts to your sales force giving them direction to start the day, or deliver monthly status reports to traveling executives.

The answer can be sent to those who need the answers via the internet to their PDA's, cell phone's or e-mail.

Salient has deployed a complex combination of technology to provide you instant access to your data wherever you go.
